

Evaluating Arabic Summaries Guidelines

Evaluation process:

Evaluators read a document at least once. Then, they read the document summary they are to evaluate, and they grade it. Each summary is to be assigned an integer grade from 1 to 5, related to the overall responsiveness of the summary. We consider a text to be worth a 5, if it appears to cover all the important aspects of the corresponding document using fluent, readable language. A text should be assigned a 1, if it is either unreadable, nonsensical, or contains only trivial information from the document. We consider the content and the quality of the language to be equally important in the grading.
